Driver calls police after seeing his truck on video

Investigators no longer searching for vehicle involved in pedestrian fatality

The suspected driver of a dump truck that struck and killed a woman in Elkridge last night called police this morning after seeing a video released by investigators. The man, who is not yet being identified due to the ongoing investigation, came forward after realizing it may have been his vehicle that struck the pedestrian.

At approximately 7:19 p.m., Huma Rani Isfahani, 54, of Cresthill Court in Laurel, was crossing the 6800 block of Dorsey Road, when she was struck by the dump truck traveling eastbound toward Anne Arundel County. Isfahani was pronounced dead at the scene.

A doorbell camera at a nearby residence captured video of the truck just after the collision. Police released the video, which resulted in the suspected driver coming forward. He has been cooperating fully with the police investigation.

No charges have been filed at this time, but police are actively investigating the circumstances of the incident.
